MYLEGACY PRESENTS

The 72-Hour Family Checklist

If something happened to you tonight, would your family have your messages, access, and instructions in time?

Most families discover the answer is NO. And it costs them months of stress, confusion, and missed chances to say what truly matters.

The Wake-Up Call No One Expects

> "Dad had an accident on Tuesday. By Friday, the family still didn't know which password to use to pay his medical bills, which insurer to call, or where his instructions were. His phone was locked. Everything was locked."

A scenario that repeats in thousands of families every year.

Here's what really happens in a crisis:

Hour 1-24: Panic Mode. Your family is searching drawers, calling banks, trying to remember passwords. Everything is urgent. Nothing is organized.

Hour 24-48: The Roadblocks Hit. Accounts can't be accessed without the right password. No one knows who to notify first. The messages you meant to leave simply don't exist anywhere.

Hour 48-72: Reality Sets In. This is going to take weeks, not days. And they still don't know what you wanted to tell them.

The truth: most families spend months rebuilding what a 15-minute plan could have made ready.

The 72-Hour Checklist

If something happened to you tonight, your family would need access to these within 72 hours. Check what you already have ready:

Digital Access

- ☐ Bank and email passwords shared with someone you trust
- ☐ Access to social media and cloud storage
- ☐ Phone and computer PIN
- ☐ List of subscriptions and auto-charges
- ☐ Account recovery method (2FA)

Messages & Instructions

- ☐ A final message for your partner and children
- ☐ Clear instructions on finances and pending bills
- ☐ Your healthcare wishes
- ☐ Business instructions (if applicable)
- ☐ Scheduled messages for future important dates

Contacts & Guardians

- ☐ Trusted people who should receive your messages (Guardians)
- ☐ Your lawyer's or accountant's contact
- ☐ Your insurance contact
- ☐ Your primary doctor's contact
- ☐ Who to notify first

Key Documents

- ☐ Location of your will
- ☐ Insurance policies
- ☐ Property deeds and titles
- ☐ ID documents for all family members
- ☐ Copies of important cards

How many boxes could you check? If you checked fewer than 15, your family is at risk of a crisis becoming a catastrophe.

What Unpreparedness Really Costs

Financial Costs

- Legal and probate court fees
- Frozen accounts that keep accruing fees
- Bills and subscriptions no one cancels in time
- Lost insurance benefits due to missed deadlines

Time Costs

- Weeks or months rebuilding basic information
- Dozens of hours calling banks and insurers
- Repeated paperwork due to missing documentation
- Delays that stack up with every institution

Emotional Costs

- Family conflict over “what they would have wanted”
- Guilt over not leaving things clear
- Added stress during an already painful time
- Messages and instructions that were never said

None of this is inevitable. A simple plan, made calmly, avoids almost all of it.

Why Smart People Don't Prepare (And Why You Haven't Yet)

1. “I'll do it next month”

Reality: tomorrow isn't guaranteed.

2. “It's too overwhelming”

Passwords, instructions, documents. The list feels endless. Reality: alone, it is. That's exactly why tools exist to simplify it.

3. “I'm not tech-savvy enough”

Cloud storage, encryption, apps. It feels like a foreign language. Reality: it shouldn't feel that way — and with the right tool, it doesn't.

4. “I don't want to think about it”

Planning for the end feels uncomfortable. Reality: not planning just makes it harder on everyone you love.

5. “I don't know where to start”

Reality: most people find out after the crisis hits.

Here's the good news: none of these reasons mean you're irresponsible. They mean you're human, and they're exactly why MyLegacy exists.

There's a Better Way

Imagine this instead:

✓ You write, record in voice, or record in video your messages and instructions once

✓ It all works in English and Spanish, from your phone or computer

This is what MyLegacy does.

"The families who regret preparing don't exist. The ones who regret waiting do, every single day."
